

Grand Challenges Explorations Round 20

Rules & Guidelines

Proposals due by Wednesday, November 8, 2017 11:30 a.m. U.S. Pacific Standard Time

I. Overview

Grand Challenges Explorations (GCE) supports hundreds of early-stage projects – including many ideas that have never before been tested – and innovators from a wide range of disciplines and regions. The GCE initiative funds innovative ideas that could lead to new vaccines, diagnostics, drugs, and other technologies targeting diseases that claim millions of lives every year, as well as improvements and innovations in agriculture development and other priority areas of the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation.

GCE is an extension of the foundation’s commitment to the Grand Challenges in Global Health, which was launched in 2003 to accelerate the discovery of new technologies to improve global health. Since then, GCE has expanded to include global development and communications challenges, and the Grand Challenges family of programs launched additional funding opportunities in 2014. A history of the program and current funding opportunities offered by the Grand Challenges family of programs can be found on the Grand Challenges website. To date, the foundation has committed over half a billion dollars to support hundreds of projects on topics such as making childhood vaccines easier to use in poor countries and creating new ways to control insects that spread disease.

Key features of the GCE initiative are:

- A two-page application.
- Rapid turnaround time. We select projects within approximately five months of the proposal submission.
- Blinded and champion-based review process. Reviewers with a track record in identifying innovative ideas select the proposals they find most pioneering without need for consensus.
- Awards of $100,000 USD are made in Phase I. Phase I awardees have one opportunity to apply for a follow-on Phase II award of up to $1,000,000 USD.

Tips for Applicants

- Your proposal must demonstrate an innovative approach that complies with all restrictions and guidelines for the topic to which you are applying. The foundation only funds projects responsive to the topics included in each round as it has a number of other avenues of funding for the equally important research that is otherwise within currently accepted program paradigms.
- Proposals are sent to reviewers without personal or organizational information. Do not include this information in the body of your proposal. Proposals that include personal or organizational information in the body of the proposal may be automatically removed from consideration.
- In addition to subject matter experts, your proposal will be reviewed by a panel with broad expertise and a track record in identifying innovations – these reviewers may not be deep domain experts in your field. You must describe your idea in clear language without the use of jargon unique to your field.
- The work proposed in your application must include a clear set of key experiments or activities that test your idea in a way that could provide sufficient evidence to warrant funding. Proposals with vague descriptions or vague testing methodologies will not be funded.

How to Apply

Changes to the Rules and Guidelines will be posted on the Frequently Asked Questions page of the Grand Challenges website (gch.grandchallenges.org), including any changes to the dates listed above. Please read the current FAQ before submitting any questions or concerns.

Subject to the foundation's Website Terms of Use and Privacy and Information Policy, the foundation may share information you provide to us (either orally or in writing) with third parties, including external reviewers, key partners and co-funders.

The GCE initiative publishes topics and invites proposals two rounds a year. An applicant must submit under only one topic each round and may submit only one proposal. Submit your best idea. You may submit multiple ideas in partnership with collaborators, but an individual Principal Investigator may lead the submission of only one proposal each round. View the detailed topic descriptions and determine which topic best suits your idea. You must select a topic prior to submitting a proposal. You may change your topic and edit your proposal any time before the application deadline.

If you are an existing user, you can log in to your existing account. New users must create an account and submit proposals through our online portal.

Application Format

We encourage you to use the provided application form, which can be downloaded at: Explorations Application Form. You are required to submit either a Microsoft Word® or PDF document; no more than two pages in length. Please do not include a cover sheet with your proposal. A cover sheet will be automatically generated from your registration data.

The review and evaluation of your application are not based on your past history or institutional capabilities. Describe your project without identifying personal or organizational information and do not refer to potential project partners by names or other identifying information. Proposals that do not adhere to these restrictions may be removed from consideration.

Proposals for Round 20 must be submitted prior to the submission deadline of 11:30 a.m. Pacific Standard Time on Wednesday, November 8, 2017.

During the application process you will be required to confirm that you have read and understand the Website Terms of Use and Privacy and Information Policy and these Rules and Guidelines, and acknowledge that any information that you provide to us (either orally or in writing) will be subject to and handled in accordance with such provisions.

Eligibility Criteria

GCE is open to both foreign and domestic organizations, including non-profit organizations, for-profit companies, international organizations, government agencies, and academic institutions.

Upon registration, applicants must provide information about the tax status of their organization as different terms and conditions may apply. You should confirm your organization's tax status with the appropriate person or group within your organization such as your grants or contracts department, finance, or office of sponsored research. Please select the tax status that most closely reflects your current organization's status. The foundation may request additional information regarding your tax status and other organizational information. For information about tax statuses, you may check with your own advisors and refer to information provided on the Internal Revenue Service web site at: www.irs.gov.

Applicants planning to conduct project activities in India may be required to register with the Ministry of Home Affairs under the Foreign Contribution Regulation Act of 2010 (FCRA). As part of the foundation's diligence we may ask for a copy of your organization's registration under FCRA or a written certification that FCRA registration is not required. Failure to comply with the requirements of FCRA may subject your organization to financial and/or criminal penalties. You should consult with your own advisors to determine whether FCRA applies to your organization or project.

III. Review Process

The review of proposals is a critical element of the GCE initiative - its goal is to filter and harness creative ideas. For each round, we advertise a set of challenges carefully defined to elicit innovative responses to critical barriers in global health and development.

Handling of Proposals

The foundation has put in place policies and procedures, exclusive to the GCE initiative, intended to restrict public dissemination of application materials. These policies and procedures include, when possible, having external reviewers sign confidentiality agreements and requiring that reviewers destroy or return to the foundation all copies of information acquired or created during the course of performing a review. In some instances, however, we are unable to put in place confidentiality agreements or to police the use of application materials.

The foundation also provides general descriptions of its grants on its web sites, in press releases, and in other marketing materials and is required by law to publish a list of its grants. Subject to the foundation's Website Terms of Use and Privacy and Information Policy, the foundation may also share information you provide to us (either orally or in writing) with third parties, including external reviewers, key partners and co-funders.

Review of Proposals

Due to the large number of proposals anticipated, applicants with proposals that are not selected for award will receive a notification of decline without specific feedback. Nonetheless, applicants are encouraged to submit ideas in future rounds.

The review process for Phase I is executed in four steps:

1. The first step consists of screening submissions to evaluate whether proposals address the key needs described in the topic. We screen for responses that are completely unrelated or specifically excluded in the topic description. In addition, we exclude proposals considered incremental advances, responses similar to work in which the foundation is already investing, or avenues of inquiry we deem ill-suited to the GCE initiative. Applicants with proposals removed from consideration during the screening process will be notified that their proposals were declined but will not typically receive specific feedback.

2. In the second step, responsive proposals are reviewed. The reviews are chaired by a foundation program lead and are conducted by reviewers both outside and within the foundation. Reviewers are selected from the world's leading innovative minds and comprise both experts in the topic area and experts in complementary areas with a track record of innovation. (Not all reviewers have deep expertise in the topic; please consider this information when drafting your proposal.) Unlike most grants initiatives, individual reviewers are empowered to make funding decisions about a portion of the portfolio, without consensus on selections. Proposals are sent to reviewers without an applicant's personal or organizational information.

In order of importance, the criteria considered in these reviews are:

- Topic Responsiveness – How well does the proposal address a key need illustrated in the topic description?
 - Innovative Approach – Does the idea offer an unconventional, creative approach to the problem outlined in the topic?
 - Execution Plan – Is the work described feasible within the budget and time allocated for a Phase I project and, if successful would it have a clear need for further support?
3. The third step is the validation and final selection by an Executive Committee at the foundation of the proposals selected by reviewers in the second step of the evaluation. The Executive Committee is chaired by a foundation program director.
 4. The fourth and final step is a due diligence review to ensure that applicants are appropriate recipients of foundation funds. While the first few steps of the review are largely blind to the institution and investigator, this due diligence review ensures that the investigator and institution have the basic capacity to receive the award (taking into consideration legal requirements to which the Foundation is subject) and perform the work described. Investigators will be contacted as part of the due diligence review.

Management of Conflict of Interest

To identify and avert conflicts of interest among reviewers, reviewers will not be permitted to review proposals from organizations with which the reviewer has self-identified a conflict of interest.

IV. Key Elements of GCE Phase I Agreements

Detailed sample provisions for each of the two GCE Agreements, one for non-profit organizations and one for for-profit organizations, are included in the Appendix to these Rules and Guidelines. The provisions have been developed specifically for the GCE initiative and are not negotiable. You are advised to ensure that your institution can accept the provisions of the relevant Agreement at the time of proposal submission. If your proposal is selected, you will have only a few weeks after notification of the award in which to have the appropriate institutional officer sign the Agreement and return it to the foundation.

1. Phase I projects have a term of 18 months beginning on the project start date. The amount awarded is up to $100,000 USD.
2. Grant funds may not be used to reimburse expenses incurred prior to the project start date.
3. The applicant must return a fully executed agreement to the foundation no later than the date and time indicated by the Grants and Contracts Management team to receive a GCE Phase I award. For non-profit grantees, funds will be disbursed upon the foundation's receipt of a fully executed agreement. Funds to for-profit entities will be disbursed in two payments of $50,000. Upon receipt of a fully executed agreement, the foundation will disburse the first $50,000. The foundation will disburse the second $50,000 upon receipt of a report describing progress on the project and use of at least $45,000 of the initial $50,000 disbursement.
4. No awardee is permitted to make sub-grants, but all awardees will be permitted to contract for services, up to a maximum of $49,999 USD. Please be aware that this limit applies to funds paid by an awardee to any other organization (or an individual employed at another organization) as a subcontractor, including payments to co-PIs working at another organization.

5. All awardees are entitled to purchase equipment, provided that the cost of each item is less than $5,000 USD.
6. Phase I project funds may be used to cover the full direct costs of the project, but no awardee will be entitled to use funds to cover indirect costs. See the Sample Agreements for the definition of indirect costs.
7. For-profit non-US awardees are subject to restrictions on the amount of funds they may use for expenditures in the US (see sample agreement for for-profit organizations).
8. Project funds may not be used to enroll human subjects in any research project subject to Institution Review Board (IRB) or Independent Ethics Committee (IEC) approval until such approval has been obtained for each site.
9. Awardees must agree to conduct and manage the project and the products, services, processes, technologies, materials, software, data other innovations, and intellectual property resulting from the project (including modifications, improvements, and further developments to “Background Technology”) in a manner that ensures “Global Access.” See the Global Access Section of the Sample Agreements for more information about these obligations.
10. Awardees must agree to abide by the foundation’s Open Access Policy which requires all peer-reviewed published research, and underlying data sets resulting from foundation funded research to be immediately available upon publication. As noted in the Open Access Policy, the foundation is responsible for individual article processing charges and fees to the extent required to comply with the foundation’s Open Access Policy. These fees should not be included in project budgets. Open access management and fees will be managed via Chronos, a new service for foundation-funded research. Chronos simplifies and manages the process of publishing under the foundation’s Open Access Policy terms. Primary contacts will receive a Chronos account activation email 6 weeks after the agreement start date.

The Agreement and specific provisions that apply to a project depend on the tax status of the applicant. We strongly encourage you to share the Sample Agreements with the appropriate person or group within your organization such as your grants and contracts department, legal department, finance or office of sponsored research at the time you submit your proposal to ensure that your organization can agree to the relevant provisions.

V. Phase I Reporting

All GCE awardees must prepare and submit a Final Financial and Scientific Report. Awardees must submit the report electronically by the date described in the Reporting section of the Sample Agreements. The report should be a cumulative, stand-alone document that describes the work performed with the project funds during the project term. The scientific section of the report must include any technical data gathered, models developed, and summary conclusions. The financial section of the report should include an account of the manner in which you spent the project funds.

VI. Phase II GCE Awards

Phase II is an opportunity to provide additional support for projects that demonstrate innovative solutions towards the GCE goals and are critical to foundation strategies. Phase I awardees have one opportunity to apply for Phase II funding of up to $1,000,000 USD with a grant term of up to two (2) years.

Phase II projects are not subject to the same limitations as Phase I grants. Phase II grant terms follow standard grant-making practices at the foundation.
