Review ProcessHow does the review process work?

The review process will be executed as follows:

1. The first step consists of screening all applications to evaluate whether proposals address the requirements as outlined within the application instructions and rules and guidelines.
2. In the second step, reviews will be undertaken by an expert panel comprised of internal foundation staff as well as external reviewers. Reviewers are selected from the world's leading researchers, including African scientific leaders, and will comprise both experts in the topic area and experts in complementary areas. Not all reviewers have deep expertise in your specific topic area; please consider this information when drafting your proposal.
3. Following the expert review stage, reviewer feedback will be consolidated, and the applications will be reviewed for a second time by an Executive Committee. The Executive Committee will select finalists who will be invited to prepare a virtual presentation and will have the opportunity to be interviewed by and ask questions of the Executive Committee.
4. The fourth step is the validation and final selection of the proposals to be funded. The Executive Committee may recommend the proposal be funded, subject to specific modifications which will be negotiated as part of the award process. Organizations invited to submit full proposals will be provided additional technical instructions at that time.
5. The fifth and final step is a due diligence review by the foundation and direct discussion and negotiation of any adjustments to the proposed project recommended by the Executive Committee. Applicants will be contacted as part of the due diligence review.

Can I get a list of potential reviewers who might be assigned to my application?

No. We do not make public the roster of reviewers.

Can I request that my application not be reviewed by a specific individual?

No. However, we will ask reviewers about conflicts of interest and will not assign reviewers with conflicts.
